

Marlar Pleads Guilty, Life Term Assessed

LEWISVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Jerrol K. Marlar, 32, of Hope was assessed a penalty of life imprisonment Monday after being convicted in Lafayette Circuit Court of first degree murder.

Marlar was charged in the death of Thomas O. Bond, 33, on April 28, this year. Welda Lee Derr, of Rosston, Ark., charged with Marlar in the slaying, appeared on the stand. She has not entered a plea.

Marlar had pleaded guilty to the charge, but cases involving capital punishment must be tried by jury. A jury of 12 white men deliberated 15 minutes before returning the conviction and setting the sentence. Formal sentencing is expected next week by Circuit Judge Lyle Brown.

The trial was originally scheduled in Miller County. It was moved to Lewisville after Brown granted a change of venue. Marlar and his court-appointed lawyers contended the defendant could not get a fair trial where the crime occurred (Miller County) because of adverse publicity.

Bond's body was found in a wooded area near Fouke, Ark., after Marlar led officers to the scene.

Proposes $10 Billion Tax Cut Next Year

By HARRISON B. HUMPHRIES

WASHINGTON (AP)—Upturns in home construction, factory orders and personal income during October brightened the economic outlook today as a presidential advisory committee recommended a $10-billion tax cut early next year.

In separate reports, the Commerce Department announced Monday:

Personal income rose $2.1 billion last month to a record annual rate of $445.6 billion.

Construction was started on 129,000 privately owned houses and apartment units, for a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 1,497,000, up 17 per cent from September and 4 per cent above October of last year.

Orders for durable goods climbed 3 per cent to a new high, exceeding the previous peak last January attributed in part to a heavy surge of steel orders.

Durable goods sales in October held steady at $16.4 billion, matching manufacturers' sales during August and September and equalling the peak of last spring.

The President's 21-member Advisory Committee on Labor-Management Policy informed him Monday that a majority favors a $10-billion tax cut early next year to strengthen the economy and expand production.

In its report on fiscal policy, the committee outlined a double objective—to increase immediate demand for both consumption and investment, and, in the long run, to step up the rate of expansion of the nation's productive capacity.

"The United States can and must improve its recent record of economic progress," the report said.

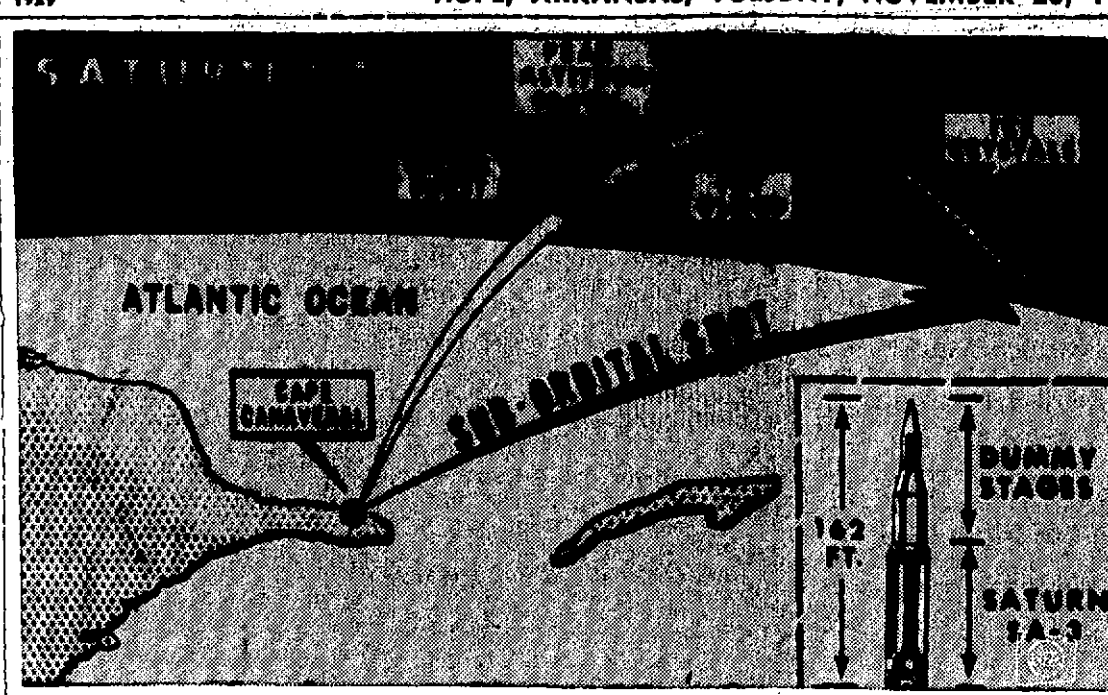

The committee, composed of business and labor executives and public representatives, met last Friday to draft its report. Its non-voting alternate chairmen are the secretaries of labor and commerce.

The report was delivered to the White House by Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz and Edward G. Gurnea, filling in for Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges. Gurnea is acting secretary of commerce while Hodges is away on a trip.

Wirtz said a distinct majority favored an early $10-billion tax cut, although some preferred spacing the reduction over two or three years. Two wanted to hold the cut to $4 or $5 billion during the next year.

The report said: "Tax rates should be reduced on both individual and corporate incomes. In dollar amount, the bulk of the tax reduction should take the form of lowering individual income tax rates. The remainder should be achieved through reducing the 'emergency' corporate tax rate of 52 per cent."

The corporate rate was increased from 47 to 52 per cent during the Korean War.

Nehru Names a New Army Leader

By HENRY S. BRADSHAW

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Prime Minister Nehru today named a new army chief of staff and told Parliament the battered Indian army is ready for a desperate stand against Chinese Communist warriors rushing toward the rich plains of Assam.

Nehru also declared the Chinese "have sent many suggestions (for talks) but we are not going to accept any one of them. We shall continue the war until we win."

Gen. Joyanto Nath Chaudhuri, 54, commander of the Indian troops that seized Portuguese Goa last December in lightning conquest, was named to succeed Gen. P. N. Thapar.

Nehru said Thapar was relieved for health reasons and is going on a long leave.

Like Thapar, the new commander is a graduate of Britain's famed Sandhurst military school and a veteran of World War II. Nehru said the Chinese are advancing from captured Bomdila, only 80 road miles from the plains, along a road which leaves the mountains and runs through a strip of jungle before emerging onto rich rice fields and tea estates.

"Defensive positions have been prepared in front of them and our troops will give battle there," Nehru said.

He said the Chinese were "a few miles beyond Bomdila." Between Bomdila and the plains there is one last mountain pass, 9,300-foot Eagle's Nest, that would offer a good defensive position.

The American consul general in Calcutta, William Baxter, recommended that dependents of Americans on the north bank of the Brahmaputra River in Assam be evacuated. The Chinese are less than 50 air miles north of the river.

Baxter also recommended that Americans on the south bank urgently consider evacuation. There are about 100 Americans known to be living in Assam, mostly Baptist missionaries.

About 1,500 British tea planters and their families in Assam are considering evacuation.

The populous plains of Assam, which produce much of India's tea, rice and oil, were also threatened by a second Chinese drive bursting southward across India's northeast frontier district.

This column moved toward Assam down the Lohit River valley, near the Burma border, 300 miles to the east of Bomdila.

Nehru announced that in the Ladakh theater, 850 miles to the west, the Chinese have captured three more outposts guarding the

Nehru Wants More Help From U.S.

By DILLON GRAHAM

WASHINGTON (AP)—India's Prime Minister Nehru has sent an urgent personal plea to President Kennedy for helicopters and transport planes.

The request was made in a letter delivered to the President on Monday by India's Ambassador B. K. Nehru, a cousin of the prime minister. Indian defenses were crumbling at the time as Red Chinese battalions advanced toward the populous plains of Assam.

The ambassador said he gave the President a report on the military situation and India's urgent defense needs in the border war.

Red troops stormed on Monday over 13,750-foot So Pass sector on the Himalayan front — which Indian troops had considered impregnable — and approached Assam, a state producing much tea, rice and oil.

India also sent requests to the U.S. State Department for more arms and equipment to supplement the $5 million worth already delivered. Engaged along a 1,500-mile frontier with Red China, India has a major problem in supply and equipment for its troops.

State Department press officer Lincoln White said the United States views seriously the large-scale Chinese attacks.

U.S. officials here are concerned that Pakistan may agree to a nonaggression pact with Red China. This would open the way for Chinese troops to go through the Chumbi Valley 40 miles to Darjeeling and snap the narrow Indian corridor to Assam.

Pakistani officials say that current negotiations with Red China are "merely to insure that there is no border trouble between the two nations such as now exists between China and India."

Castro Has Offered to Give Up Russian Bombers, UN Is Told

Castro Move Could End Cuban Crisis

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro offered today to give up the jet bombers the Soviet Union delivered to Cuba, a move that could pave the way to a settlement of the Cuban crisis.

Havana radio reported that Castro, in a letter to acting U.N. Secretary-General U Thant said the IL28 bombers were old and slow and the Soviet Union could take them back if it wanted to.

Continued presence of the bombers in Cuba is the biggest unresolved issue in the Cuban dispute between the United States and the Soviet Union, President Kennedy classed them as offensive weapons because they have a range of 750 miles and can carry nuclear bombs.

U.S. authorities estimate 30 or more of the bombers were delivered to Cuba. The Soviet Union said Premier Khrushchev could not order them out, as he had some 40 Soviet missiles, because the bombers had been turned over to Castro and were no longer under Soviet control.

Despite his concession on the bombers, Castro in his letter to Thant repeated his refusal to permit foreign inspection of Cuban arms. He also repeated his threat to shoot down any war plane violating his nation's air space, a reference to U.S. reconnaissance planes which have continued aerial surveillance of Cuba to insure that the dismantled missile bases are not reactivated.

Castro charged that the U.S. insistence on removal of the Soviet jet bombers from Cuba "is a pretext to maintain tension, prolong the crisis and sustain its policy of force."

"However," he continued, "if the Soviet government considers it advisable to withdraw these planes for the benefit of negotiations and for the solution of the crisis, the revolutionary government of Cuba will not be an obstacle to this decision."

Castro insisted that the bombers had been sent to Cuba "for the defense of our country against aggression." As he did earlier with the Soviet missiles already withdrawn from Cuba, he described the planes as "property of the Soviet government."

Referring to violations of Cuban air space, Castro "reiterated that Cuba has the indisputable right to defend its territory against such violations. As far as our anti-aircraft weapons can reach, every war plane which invades Cuban air space will do so at the risk of being destroyed."

He complained the United States had declared "that American military planes will continue to violate Cuban air space. These aggressive acts are in flagrant contradiction to international law and to the United Nations charter."

Castro's offer came after midnight, and State Department press officer Lincoln White said he knew nothing about it. However, officials of the Kennedy administration had shown optimism in recent days that some arrangement for withdrawal of the bombers would be worked out before President Kennedy's news conference tonight, his first in 10 weeks.

Authoritative sources reported last Thursday that Khrushchev had offered to withdraw the bombers but had attached so many conditions his proposal was unacceptable to Washington.

3,000 Singers to Meet at Crossett

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

CROSSETT, Ark. (AP)—Over 3,000 gospel singers and music publishers from 20 states packed Crossett Saturday and Sunday for the annual National Singing Convention, which promotes gospel music.

Officials had expected 10,000 persons, and said attendance would have been greater if the weather had been better.

Associate Justice Jim Johnson of the Arkansas Supreme Court represented Gov. Orval E. Faubus at the meeting. Faubus could not fly to Crossett because of bad weather.

Johnson, whose wife is secretary of the convention, welcomed the visitors and told those from Mississippi "the great state of Arkansas is behind you all the way" in Mississippi's stand against integration.

Other visitors came from California, Oregon, New York and Florida.

Century Bible to Hear Oil Executive

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

J. G. Putterbaugh, President of McAlester Fuel Company, McAlester, Oklahoma, will address the Century Bible Class on Sunday morning, November 25th.

Putterbaugh is a successful businessman, who in his 37 years has long been actively engaged in the business of producing and marketing coal from the coal fields in Oklahoma and Arkansas. As the market for coal decreased, he has become a producer of oil in southwestern Arkansas and Texas. He has varied business interests from coast to coast and at the age of 37 is completely active in heading this company. He is in demand as a lay speaker, having been asked to address colleges throughout America and other organizations.

Mr. Putterbaugh is also president of the Short Line Railroad, which extends from Dardanelle to Russellville, Arkansas. All of McAlester Fuel Company's oil operation are managed and controlled from its offices in the McAlester Building in Magnolia.

Mr. Putterbaugh is truly one of America's pioneers. He can be described as a "Self-Made" man, having risen from the farm to his present position in the world of business by hard work and experience.

Band Boosters to Collect Scrap Paper

This Sunday, November 25, the Hope Band Boosters will make a collection of Newspapers and magazines from the residents of Hope. You are asked to tie them in bundles if you will and place them on your curb. Collection will start at 1:30 p. m. If your street is torn up do not put them out, or if you think it is late you had better check to see if others have been picked up before placing yours out. The proceeds will go to the band Auxiliary to purchase uniforms, music equipment and for travel for the band. Remember you are asked to place your newspapers and magazines on the curb by 1:30 p. m. tied in bundles for ease of handling.

Speakers will include James McDevitt of Washington, national director of the AFL-CIO's Committee on Political Education; Emil Mazey, international secretary

U.S. Waiting, to Hold Russia Responsible

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro informed the United Nations today that he is prepared to give up some 30 Soviet bombers now in Cuba. The offer was expected to be discussed by Soviet and U.S. negotiators later in the day.

Top-level representatives of the big powers were invited to a working luncheon by Acting Secretary-General U Thant and authoritative sources said it could be assumed the bomber issue would be the main subject.

Those on the luncheon list on the U.S. side were Ambassadors Adlai E. Stevenson and Charles W. Yost and John J. McCloy, chairman of President Kennedy's Cuban co-ordinating committee. Representing the Soviet Union were Deputy Foreign ministers Vasily V. Kuznetsov and Valerian A. Zorin and Ambassador Platon D. Morozov.

The offer by Castro was seen in U. N. circles as clearing the way for Soviet agreement on the withdrawal of the IL28 bombers and thus removing one of the major obstacles now holding up negotiations on the Cuban problem.

By LEWIS GULICK
WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. authorities said today the United States is holding the Soviet Union responsible for carrying out the withdrawal from Cuba of bombers which Prime Minister Fidel Castro now offers to give up as obsolete.

This wait-and-see attitude was an initial Washington reaction to a letter to the United Nations quoting Castro as saying he is ready to let the Soviets take back the jet bombers if the Soviet government "considers it convenient for the good development of negotiations and a resolution of the crisis to withdraw such airplanes." Castro said his government therefore will not block the Soviet decision.

Removal of the jets could mark a breakthrough in stalled U.S.-Soviet negotiations on a Cuban settlement. President Kennedy has insisted the planes must go as part of the Cuba deal with Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

But the United States has been holding the Soviet Union responsible for the presence of the bombers in Cuba. Therefore, U.S. officials said, the United States is looking to the Soviets—over the Cuban leader's head—to indicate that the bombers are going out.

Kennedy is slated to talk publicly about the Cuban situation in a news conference at 6 p. m. EST tonight. The President's meeting with the press will be nationally radio-televized. It is his first news conference since before the start of the Cuban crisis.

U.S. authorities made it clear that what Kennedy says tonight will be affected by any word or lack of word—from the Soviets during the day about removal of the bombers.

Without setting up a definite timetable that would give the proposition one of the major elements of an ultimatum, U.S. negotiators nevertheless have emphasized to the Soviets at the United Nations that they were in a hurry for a satisfactory response on the point. The schedule for the Kennedy broadcast provided an implied time marker.

Soviet negotiators are reported to have contended so far that the planes are outdated, implying the United States should not be so insistent on their removal. The Cubans have sought to give the impression the planes belong to them.

Court Will Consider Protests

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

MEMPHIS (AP)—The U.S. Supreme Court has agreed to consider Negro protests against a lower court approved 10-year gradual desegregation plan for Memphis public parks.

The high court agreed Monday to review the gradual plan approved by Federal District Court here and upheld by the U.S. Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati. Under the plan, approved last year, the city has desegregated the municipal zoo, the fairgrounds amusement park, and two city-owned golf courses.

The Negro Plaintiffs argued that the principal of allowing time for gradual desegregation given in the school desegregation decision of 1955 should not apply to integration of public recreational facilities.

The appellate court, in upholding the plan, cited "the past and present success of the continuing plan of desegregation now being peacefully and harmoniously carried out by the city; the unquestioned good faith of the officials of the city and park commission."

In their appeal to the Supreme Court, the Negroes said the lower court ruling conflicted with earlier Supreme Court decisions that constitutional rights are "personal and present."

Hospital Bid Recommended

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—The State Hospital Board of Control recommended Saturday that Picketts and Bond Construction Co., of Little Rock be awarded a contract for construction of the main building at the hospital's Little Rock unit.

The Little Rock firm submitted a bid of $5,080,842 on the project, which will house a 432-bed intensive treatment unit and administrative offices. It will be named in honor of Gov. Orval E. Faubus.

Warrior Construction Co., of Houston, Tex., submitted an apparent low bid on the project, but Arkansas law provides that in-state contractors may be given preference if their bids are no more than three per cent higher than those of out-of-state firms.

Warrior bid $4,915,000. In other action Saturday, the board accepted a bid of $251,842 from O. G. Wren of Little Rock in purchase of 861 acres of the hospital's Baucum Farm property southeast of North Little Rock.

Sugar Bowl Voted by Hog Players

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — The University of Arkansas Razorbacks spent most of their Monday workout watching films of Texas Tech.

They meet the Red Raiders at Lubbock, Tex., Saturday in their last Southwest Conference test. A possible 9-1 season and 6-1 conference record hangs in the balance.

The Porkers, beaten only by Texas when it was ranked first in the nation, decided to await the Longhorns' fate at the hands of Texas A&M Saturday before accepting any bowl bids. If they are blocked from the Cotton Bowl—which automatically goes to the SWC winner—they would like the Sugar Bowl.

Other bids in the offering are to the Gator, Bluebonnet and Liberty Bowls.

Coach Frank Broyles sent the Hogs through a 30-minute workout before bringing them in for the film session.

He announced that linebacker Tommy Brasher, sidelined two weeks ago by an injury in the Texas A&M game, would play Saturday. But halfback George Walker, operated on Monday for torn knee ligaments, is out for the season, he said.

DOROTHY DIX

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen: You would do well not to use the tragic romance of Romeo and Juliet as an example to young people in love. Even a light familiarity with the play shows that it is subversive to all the prudence and reserve you are trying to inculcate in our modern adolescents.

While it is true that Romeo, as you said, made the first advances, Juliet — from the start, unabashedly and actively returns his attention, incites him to filial disobedience and rebellion. It is she who proposes marriage the second time they see one another, candidly admits she has been an easy conquest but hopes Romeo will realize that extenuating circumstances make coyness unthinkable. One could go on listing her shameless indiscretions, any of which would be all the more outrageous in a young girl today.

You recently advised a teen that 14 was too young to find the one and only heart throb. But Shakespeare's star-crossed lovers prove the contrary — that love is no respecter of age; Juliet was about 12, Romeo 7.

Nor is "Romeo and Juliet" a warning to young lovers; for it is not the children's innocent love but rather their elders' blind hatred that brings on the tragedy. "Romeo and Juliet" contains a lesson which adults far more than children should heed. Next time you advise a teen pick your answers with more care. Why not "Antony and Cleopatra"? Yours for more significant literary allusions. —Jeffery Larson, New Haven, Conn.

Dear Jeffery: You may be a student of literature but you don't know much about teens. Should they be moved to read the tragedy after reading my comparison — which I doubt — its somber implications will slide off their backs like water off a duck.

I speak from experience. As a 13-year-old I and others in my class at school were forced to study Romeo and Juliet. The double suicide of the lovers made no impression whatsoever but the balcony scene held us enthralled.

The school players of which I was a member, built it up as the big project of the season. I took the part of Juliet and can still recite from memory that passage beginning, "Oh Romeo, Romeo, wherefore art thou Romeo?" but I remember absolutely nothing of the death scene. The trimness of Shakespeare's plot strikes home because you read the tragedy from an adult point of view.

Dear Helen: I am giving a party and have a girl friend whom I don't wish to invite. But not to do so won't be easy. Until a few years ago we were the best of friends and always attended the same parties. The trouble is the boys. They just plain don't like her. If she does come I fear the whole evening will be ruined for everybody. To complicate matters I've already invited mutual friends. Help! —B.

Dear B.: If you are this girl's friend, it is not only your privilege but obligation to stand by her. To invite those she knows and omit her would be cruel. Kindness and loyalty are the cornerstones of friendship. Who's giving this party, you or the boys? If they can't be decent to your guests they don't deserve to be invited.

Dear Helen: Our son, mine, has asked for an allowance. My wife says he can have it if he does the dishes, empties the waste baskets and hang up his clothe. Should he fail to do any one of these things he is docked a certain amount from the allowance. He likes the idea and does fine. Our neighbor doesn't approve of our system. She complains that it sets a precedent with her children. They are now demanding to be paid for what they do around the home. Who's right? —Wondering other

Dear Wondering: Tell your neighbor that each child is an individual problem. What works with one may not do at all for another, but it is your privilege to rear your child as you think best. The routine you and your wife have evolved for your little boy is a fine one. If more parents followed it, there would be less teen trouble.

Schools Open Doors to Catholics

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

In a number of communities scattered throughout the land, pupils from Roman Catholic parochial schools for years have been attending occasional classes in public schools.

From Connecticut to Oklahoma public schools here and there have opened their doors to parochial students for classes that require special equipment—for the most part home economics and industrial arts.

The system lately has acquired the designation—"shared time."

Now, a Pittsburgh suburb is expanding this idea in what may be the first wholesale sharing of tax-supported schools by public and parochial students.

Some think the outcome may have an eventual impact on the current national debate over federal aid to parochial schools, and perhaps point to a way out of the impasse.

The experiment is being made in Monroeville, about 10 miles east of Pittsburgh. Some 35 boys and girls from the 11th grade of a Roman Catholic high school are spending half of each school day in advanced science classes at the new Forbes Trail Area Technical School.

The rest of the day they study religion, social science, English and related subjects at their parent school, the St. Thomas Schol in North Braddock Borough.

So far, the program has met with little publicized resistance. Of the 9,778 "non-public" Pennsylvania school children who used public school facilities part time last school year, 8,793 were located in Allegheny (Pittsburgh) County, 5,744 of them in the city of Pittsburgh.

In Connecticut, major cities in the state have been opening public schools to students from Catholic schools for some classes for some time, as long as 20 year in Hartford.

In the upper Midwest, communities have used the shared time vital Indian airfield at Chushul. He said the airfield, last main Indian base in the mountain passes of Ladakh, "remains firmly in our hands."

As bad news continued to pour in from the Himalayan battlefronts, informed sources said the Indian government may ask the United States and Britain for fighter planes.

Nehru sent an urgent personal plea Monday to President Kennedy for helicopters and transport planes. The Indian government is also reported to be in close contact with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

In a radio speech to the nation, Nehru called the fighting "a matter of survival for us" and said India was grateful "for the speedy help that came to us from friendly countries abroad, more especially from the United States and the United Kingdom."

At Bird Island, Minn., for example, the helping hand is extended in both directions. St. Mary's High School and the public high school face each other across a street. The public school gives Catholic students classes in home economics, industrial arts and agriculture. St. Mary's handles Latin for students of both schools.

In Kansas City, Mo., public schools have had shared time arrangements with Catholic parochial schools since 1940. At the end of last school year, there were 289 such boys and 270 such girls in public school industrial and home-making courses.

In Topeka, Kan., Catholic schools for many years have used classrooms of nearby public schools for home economics and manual training.

In Oklahoma, the German community of Okarche has a similar plan. For years Holy Trinity School has sent four classes a day—shop and home economics—to Okarche High School.

The shared time idea has been discussed in other cities including St. Louis and San Francisco.

Miller Wants to Keep GOP Position

BY JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. William E. Miller of New York said today he wants to stay on the job as Republican national chairman in an effort to elect a GOP president in 1964.

Miller said he has surveyed and found good the Nov. 6 election results in which the Republicans made some significant gains in important governorships, picked up a net of two seats in the House and lost four in the Senate.

This outcome has prompted some suggestions that the party needs a full-time, paid chairman who would direct a professional organization drive for the presidential campaign.

When Miller took office he said that if he found that he didn't have time for both the chairmanship and his duties as a member of the House, he would quit one of the jobs. He serves in the chairmanship without pay.

Miller said in an interview he believes he has demonstrated in the nearly two years he has held the party post that he has not stinted his work there or in Congress. He added that, as of now, he hopes to continue in the dual role. Few doubted that he would be challenged in that decision.

THE DEPENDABLES FROM DODGE!

DON'T LET THE NAMEPLATE FOOL YOU...

THIS BIG ONE'S IN THE LOW-PRICE FIELD

INTRODUCING THE 1963 DODGE

The low-price field is about the last place a traditionalist would expect to find Dodge. The Dodge name has been associated with the medium-price boys since Hector was a pup. But the fact remains: the '63 Dodge is priced down with good old cars "F" and "C". Now, you can stay with a low price and get a lot more car. The name proves it: Dodge! You get the comfort Dodge is famous for. You get a smooth torsion-bar ride; experts call it best in the business. You get a V8 loaded for bear. (Or, the famous gas-saving 6 with the muscle of conventional V8's.) If that isn't enough to turn the other two green with envy, how's this for a clincher? Every 1963 Dodge is backed by a revolutionary new 5-year/50,000 mile warranty.*

*Your authorized Dodge Dealer's Warranty against defects in material and workmanship on 1963 cars has been expanded to include parts replacement or repair without charge for required parts or labor for 5 years or 50,000 miles, whichever comes first: on the engine block, (excluding dual covers), rear axle and differential, and 1961 wheel bearings—provided the vehicle has been serviced at reasonable intervals according to the Dodge Certified Car Care schedule.

U.S. Warning

Castro's declaration that he is willing to give up the craft because they are out of date would appear to be a face-saving solution for the Cuban leader.

Havana radio renewed Castro's threat to down U.S. reconnaissance planes that are still flying in the absence of the U.S.-specified inspection inside Cuba to see that Soviet missiles and other offensive weapons are actually removed, and restated his rejection of on-the-spot verification by outsiders.

Khrushchev has offered to withdraw the bombers in the past but only on such terms that the United States would not agree. Among other things, the Soviets have been backing Castro demands including withdrawal of the United States from its big naval base at Guantanamo in eastern Cuba.

If the bombers do depart from Cuba, Kennedy is expected to give consideration to carrying out some part of the commitments of his deal with Khrushchev. Kennedy has told Khrushchev that upon withdrawal of offensive weapons from Cuba and establishment of international safeguards to insure Cuba is free of such weapons, the United States would lift its blockade of Cuba and pledge not to invade the island.

There had been no concrete indication that Kennedy would be able to report further progress on the Cuban situation when he goes before newsmen at 6 p.m. EST for the news conference to be carried by major radio and television networks.

But there had been optimism among administration officials in recent days that some arrangement on withdrawal of the bombers from Cuba would be worked out prior to the President's meeting with newsmen—his first in 10 weeks.

Authoritative sources reported last Thursday that Soviet Premier Khrushchev had offered to withdraw the bombers, but had attached so many conditions that the proposal was unacceptable to Washington.

Therefore, any new offer by Castro would get close scrutiny for attached "ifs."

The prime minister was quoted as saying again today that he would never consent to on-site inspection for the removal of offensive weapons.

Once again, according to the broadcast, he declared he would stop aerial reconnaissance of the island by U.S. planes. Washington authorities have made it clear that any attempt to interfere with the reconnaissance planes would be met by force.

President Kennedy has never before allowed 10 weeks to lapse without meeting with newsmen. Since the Cuban crisis boiled up last month, the administration has kept a damper on news of the situation.

In a radio-television speech on Oct. 22, Kennedy declared that the Soviet Union was building of offensive missile bases in Cuba and was bringing in jet bombers.

He threw an offensive arms blockade around the island and told Moscow to pull back its missiles and bombers.

On Nov. 2 in a brief broadcast, Kennedy reported the dismantling of the Soviet rockets and said "progress is now being made towards the restoration of peace in the Caribbean." He promised to "continue to keep the American people informed on this matter."

A break in the crisis had come with an Oct. 27-28 exchange between Kennedy and Khrushchev. Not all of the messages were made public. In those that were, Khrushchev said he had ordered withdrawal of offensive weapons. Kennedy said he would lift the arms blockade and give a no-invasion pledge upon the establishment of international safeguards to assure Khrushchev carried out his commitment and of offensive weapons would not re-enter Cuba.

Colubine was first conscious of nausea; then of a throbbing headache. She opened her eyes and even the dim light stabbed into her brain agonizingly.

She was lying on a cot clothed only in her pajamas, covered by her dressing robe. She drew up her knees. Her feet were bare. She slowly maneuvered her legs over the edge of the cot and then, after minutes, forced herself to sit upright, even to open her eyes. She peered about her. There was no other furniture in the large room than that upon which she sat. It was a high-ceilinged room, unswayed except for a small area around her feet. About the walls were heaps of fallen plaster. One candle inside a hurricane chimney fluttered. The only egress from the room was through an archway across from where she sat.

She could not guess what time

They lunched beside the pool, and a very pleasant meal it was, for Miss Stubbsfield talked of the past, and of great men and wicked men, and of the splendors of harsher days, and of the achievements of men who did not know they were achieving, but only performing their day's work. And when, at the end, she left them, they knew that they had enjoyed a high privilege.

Sam Jones was earnest as he leaned across the table. "There," he said, "goes a personage."

"She," Colubine said with misty eyes, "would rather have been a commonplace grandmother."

Sam Jones lighted his post-prandial cigarette and leaned back in a comfortable manner. "Colubine," he said, and she noted it was his first use of her given name, "I do not offer this as a considered legal opinion, but as personal observation and deduction."

"Yes?" she said.

"You," he said, "are not only a doggone remarkable girl, but, thrown in to boot, a block-buster of a beauty."

"And you," she said evenly, "are quite definitely astute to be able to notice it."

"Recess is over," Sam said. "I'm called from refreshment to labor."

"You understand what comes next?" she asked.

"In a business way, yes," he said. "Otherwise I'm not so certain."

The remainder of that day was serene. Colubine found she was able now to solve promptly such minor problems as arose. In the evening she retired to her bed at an early hour.

She did not know how many hours had passed until she found herself wide-awake and startled. There had been a sound that should not have occurred. She sat on the edge of her bed and put on slipper, and a robe over her pajamas and went to her door and softly descended the stairs. She opened the door to her

Two Class AA high schools in Arkansas have exceeded the maximum enrollment limit set by the Arkansas Athletic Association and may have to seek new classifications.

At least five other schools are bordering on the same problem. In the next few years, probably one or more of four actions will occur:

1. A revision of enrollment limitations.
2. Expansion of the Big Nine Conference (Class AAA).
3. Continued acceptance by Class AA schools of athletic teams supported by enrollments greater than the maximums.
4. One or more teams playing on an independent basis.

The two schools over the limit are Jonesboro and Fayetteville. Jonesboro's enrollment is 805, Fayetteville's is 976. Jonesboro won the Region 2AA championship for the second time in a row this year, and Fayetteville was a contender in Region 1AA, although Rogers captured that region crown.

The Arkansas high school athletic system is based on four classifications—Class AAA, Class AA, Class A and Class B. These, in turn, are based on enrollment figures. Class B includes enrollments up to 200, Class A from 200 to 399, Class AA from 400 to 700 and Class AAA for schools with enrollments over 700.

In Class AA a 10 per cent leeway is allowed in enrollments, making the real maximum enrollment 770.

The schools already near this limit, but not beyond it, include Springdale, Benton, Jacksonville and Mabelvale. A new high school in Fort Smith, Southside High School, is expected to be eligible for Big Nine Conference athletics by three years from now.

For Jonesboro and Fayetteville, manifold problems may quickly lie ahead. For the other schools, the problems may eventually come. Money is not the least of these problems. The Big Nine Conference is the only classification in the state that touches all areas—Blytheville in the Northeast, Fort Smith in the Northwest, Pine Bluff in the Southeast and Texarkana in the Southwest.

Big Nine games as a general rule involve a good deal more travel and other expense than games in other classifications, centered in a similar area. In some instances players must leave school early on the day a game is played out of town.

Big Nine schools generally have superior athletic programs, too, which would make competition on an equitable basis difficult for new entries from lower classes. However, there is no doubt that some Class AA teams could compete evenly with Big Nine schools.

There are exceptions. Sometimes a Big Nine team makes more money by traveling to play in another town than it would make in a home game. A consensus opinion is that games at Little Rock generally are profitable trips for other Big Nine teams.

Whether this would offset the expenses for Jonesboro of, say, a game at Texarkana remains to be seen. It probably would be extremely expensive for Jonesboro, as it would be for Fayetteville to journey to Pine Bluff for a game.

A good deal of the solution rests on the intentions of school officials at Jonesboro and Fayetteville. They can seek to join the Big Nine, they can try to remain in their present classifications (provided other teams in the region agree), or they can become high school independents and schedule any teams they wish, but not compete for any region title.

The fourth possibility, a revision of enrollment limitations, appears unlikely. There probably are not enough enrollment problems to warrant a revision, nor is any general revision expected to be sought in the near future.

Johnnie Burnet, executive secretary of the AAA, said Monday "no official action has come to this office, and I don't expect we can do anything until it does."

It probably would be extremely difficult for Fayetteville and Jonesboro to enter the Big Nine and profitably remain in it on the basis on which it is playing now.

Eventually a reclassification may be in order, or the Big Nine may be split into separate areas—probably east and west. Some think the last idea might be the most profitable for all concerned.

Harry Vandergriff, assistant superintendent of schools at Fayetteville, said Monday, "We can't compete in the Big Nine for several reasons and we're going to hold off for as long as we can."

"First, we don't actually feel like we have the facilities—dressing rooms, a field, stands, press box and so on," he said. "Second there are travel and financial aspects. Third, we'd be faced with the problem of integration."

Fayetteville has a 15-year-old sophomore and halfback, Robert Wilkes, who stands 6-1, weighs 180 and is a Negro.

Vandergriff said it is his under-

Hornung to Play Thurs. He Vows
GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—Paul Hornung, versatile halfback of the Green Bay Packers, says nonsense to reports he won't be able to play if needed in the Packers' important National Football League game with the Lions at Detroit on Thanksgiving Day.

"I can play Thursday," Hornung said today, discounting earlier reports that said he didn't expect his ailing right knee to permit him to get into the line-up, and others that had him contemplating surgery on the knee eventually.

"My knee is still not 100 per cent, however. I can't run full speed yet and I have trouble bending my leg but it is coming along. I could have played Sunday (against Baltimore)."

Regarding possible surgery on the knee, which was injured in a game against Minnesota Oct. 14, Hornung refused comment.

"I got pretty banged up, but I've been encouraged by the response to treatment."

He has seen only about 5 minutes action since then.

Hornung suited up Sunday but did not play in the 17-3 victory over Baltimore, the 10th straight for the unbeaten National Football League defending champions.

Tryout for Olympics Is Started

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The U.S. Track and Field Federation, feuding with the AAU for more collegiate recognition in the selection of Olympic athletes, stages its first 10,000-meter cross-country run here Thursday.

Nine universities will enter five-man teams, and 34 individuals also will go in the event, which does not have AAU sanction.

Larry Snyder, Ohio State track coach who piloted the American team in the 1960 Olympics, said: "The AAU had its cross-country event scheduled at the same time, so he challenged 'em by putting on a Thanksgiving Day race, too. Now the AAU has postponed its event."

"We are just trying to prove that the collegiate track people are the real track people in this country—and we want to have more to say about who represents us in the Olympics."

"We must build up our case in the eyes of the public if we are to get our dues—and this is the first big test."

Houston, winner of last year's AAU championship, passed up defense of its crown to enter the federation challenge. The Texas contingent is made up mostly of Australians, including Laurie Elliott, brother of Olympic 1500-meter champion Herb Elliott. John Macy, displaced Hungarian, also is on the Houston squad.

Other team entrants include Massachusetts, North Carolina, Ohio State, Indiana, Penn State, Ohio University, Central State (Ohio) and Bowling Green.

Teachers Roll to the AIC Championship
By BILL SIMMONS
The Arkansas State Teachers College Bears beat down 22 years of frustration at Conway last Saturday night and captured their first clear-cut Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference football championship since 1940.

Teachers rolled over Henderson 17-7.

The Bears did share AIC titles in 1947 and 1959 with Arkansas Tech and Henderson, respectively.

Tech, which was bidding for a third straight AIC crown this season, nailed down second place with a 28-0 victory over The College of the Ozarks Friday afternoon.

Arkansas A&M vaulted into fifth place by beating Southern State 20-6 and Ouachita Baptist College wrecked Mills a p.s. Miss., 20-6. Harding College wound up its season a week ago.

Teachers was picked in pre-season polling to place no better than third, and dropped the first two games of the year to out-of-state foes. Then the AIC season got underway, and the Bears swept unbeaten through seven league opponents. The crucial one was against Tech, and the Wonder Boys fell 14-7.

Against Henderson, the Bears jumped into a 12-0 lead on touchdowns by freshman Bill Grubbs and Bill Thier, who took a 13-yard pass from quarterback Herbie Cook.

The two missed extra points began to look big when Henderson charged 91 yards for a touchdown scored by Buddy Wells, to make it 2-7. But Cook got the Bears out of range by throwing a touchdown pass to end Bill Shimek.

Tech's ace halfback, Bill Curtis, boosted his season's rushing total to 1,028 yards with 185-yards in 2 carries against Ozarks. He scored on runs of one and 58 yards to sink Ozarks.

The other Wonder Boy scores came on a pass from quarterback B. J. Moore to end Bill Shepherd and an 85-yard pass interception return by Larry Dopson.

The running of Roger Bocox and the passing of quarterback Donnie Lindsey carried A&M past Southern State.

Porkers Move Up Notch in Football Poll
By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Southern California rushed in today where angels fear to tread and took over the jinx-loaded No. 1 spot in The Associated Press major college football rankings in a tight finish with Mississippi, an other unbeaten power.

The fall of Alabama, last week's leader, after its upset by Georgia Tech, opened the door for Southern California, Mississippi, Wisconsin, Texas and Minnesota to rush past the Crimson Tide which dropped to the No. 6 rung.

Southern California's unbeaten Trojans, who just did get past Navy 13-6, drew 20 first-place votes to 15 for Mississippi, a 9-6 winner over Tennessee. The remainder of the 48 votes from the guest panel of sports writers and sportscasters participating in the weekly Associated Press poll were spread over four teams with Wisconsin, No. 3, getting seven firsts, Penn State three, Texas two and Minnesota one.

On a point score with 10 for a first place ballot, nine for second and so on down, Southern California had a 439-403 margin over Mississippi.

Missouri, beaten by Oklahoma 13-0, and Northwestern, a 31-7 loser to Michigan State, dropped out of the top ten. Penn State, a romping 46-20 winner over Holy Cross, and Oklahoma, moved in.

The top ten with first place votes in parentheses:

1. Southern California (20) 439
2. Mississippi (15) 403
3. Wisconsin (7) 384
4. Texas (2) 326
5. Minnesota (1) 235
6. Alabama 232
7. Arkansas 200
8. Louisiana State 140
9. Penn State (3) 94
